

Customer Service Policy

1. Response Time Standards

All customer inquiries and complaints must be responded to within 24 hours during business days. Delays longer than this require escalation to a supervisor. Customers are prioritized based on their segment, with Premium customers receiving a faster response. Tracking and logging of response times is mandatory for quality assurance.

2. Complaint Resolution

Complaints should be resolved within 5 business days whenever possible. If resolution will take longer, customers must be updated about the delay and expected resolution date. All resolutions must be documented with detailed notes, including customer feedback.

3. Escalation Procedures

If an issue cannot be resolved within 72 hours, it must be escalated to the department manager. Managers are responsible for providing updates every 48 hours until resolution. Escalation levels are tracked in the support system to ensure compliance.

4. Customer Satisfaction Measurement

Surveys are sent after each interaction to assess customer satisfaction. A minimum satisfaction score of 80% is expected. Scores below this trigger reviews and corrective actions. Quarterly reports are generated to monitor trends and training needs.

5. Training Requirements

All customer service employees must complete mandatory training quarterly. Training includes communication skills, product knowledge, and complaint handling. Records of completed training are maintained centrally.

6. Call Quality Monitoring

Random quality checks are conducted monthly. At least 85% of assessed calls must meet quality standards. Issues identified are addressed with additional coaching and re-evaluation.
